

Walk in Our Shoes (for Middle School Students) Judging Form

Dear Judge,

We encourage you to seek personal support if you become troubled by the content of this category. If you experience an emotional crisis, there are people available to help you by calling or texting 988 to the Suicide & Crisis Lifeline (24/7).

The entry you are judging is a 60-second film in the Walk in Our Shoes Category. This category is only open to middle school students. When you are judging these films, please remember that they were created by young people around the ages of 11 to 14.

Students were asked to make a film that looks at the world through someone else's eyes or shows what it's like to "walk in the shoes" of someone experiencing a mental health challenge or someone thinking about suicide. It should help people develop compassion for the challenges that others may be facing and show what actions can be taken to help.

At any point if you are experiencing technical difficulties with the website, or have questions regarding the category description, please email shanti@directingchange.org or call (619) 786-5622.

In advance, we appreciate your time.

Messaging Scoring Measures
(Total Points Possible 60)

Does the film have a positive and educational message about mental health, suicide prevention, OR looking at the world through another young person's eyes?

Youth were asked to create a film that showed walking in someone else's shoes and to connect it to mental health or suicide prevention. Films should send a positive message about mental health, empathy, the importance of supporting others, suicide prevention, how to build better mental health, or how all of us can play a role in ensuring that young people get the help they need.

For example, the film could:

- Show the challenges that someone might face if they feel like they have lost their strength or reason for living. How can someone tell that a person may no longer want to live? What could an ordinary person do to help?
- Teach people the facts about mental health and what someone can do to build better mental health.
- Show how to help a friend or how to connect yourself to resources for mental health or suicide prevention.
- Discuss the importance of using kind and accurate language around mental health, or how using hurtful words or labels around mental health can be detrimental.

If Yes, award up to 25 points
(____points)

No (0 points)

Does the film include a resource?

(Mark "Yes" if the film includes a resource such as the 988 Suicide & Crisis Lifeline, Teen Line, or another resource)

Why? A key strategy to prevent suicide is to provide information about crisis and support resources.*

Please note: many films visually include a resource on the final end slate.

Does the film include a message about at least one action that someone can take to help someone else or themselves? Think of it this way: After someone watches this film what are they asked to do? Will they film inspire them to feel, act or think differently? We would like the films to be action oriented and encourage change and support. For example, where to get help, how to offer support to someone, how to get involved or learn more information. We have asked our young film makers to be creative: To not just tell someone what to do but show them how to do this. Here are a few examples: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Learn where to find support (like hotlines that are available 24/7). • Support someone going through a difficult time. • Speak up when others aren't supportive. • Tell a trusted adult if someone is talking about suicide or is harming themselves. • Change the words you use to talk about mental illness. • Start conversations about mental health on campus or with friends to make it easier for others to talk about what they're feeling and get support. • Don't wait — get help from a professional if you're struggling with a mental health challenge. 	<input type="checkbox"/> If Yes, award up to 20 points (____points) <input type="checkbox"/> No (0 points)

Disqualifying Content:

Submissions that include this type of content, or deemed to contain inappropriate content, will be disqualified.

1. The film SHOULD NOT include portrayals of suicide deaths or attempts (such as a person jumping off a building or bridge, or holding a gun to their head). Portraying suicide attempts and means, even in dramatization, can increase chances of an attempt by someone who might be thinking about suicide and exposed to the film. Important distinction:

Be creative and cautious: If you are considering showing items someone might use for a suicide attempt in your film, we encourage you to think about the purpose and benefit of including this in your film. There are other ways to demonstrate that someone is thinking about suicide without showing a weapon. Can you convey the sentiment you are seeking without showing this? In general, it is best to avoid showing images of ways people might attempt suicide, especially weapons.

Important distinction: You can show a person thinking about suicide (e.g. looking at pills or standing at the side of a ledge), but you cannot show them actually taking a step off a ledge even if you don't show the person actually falling. In general, it is best to avoid showing images of ways people might attempt suicide, especially weapons. Also consider that showing images of items/ways people might harm themselves might also be disturbing to those who have lost someone to suicide. Remember, we are focused on prevention and the most important part is educating others about how to help. If you have any questions about this, please contact us!

- 2. The film should be sensitive to racial, ethnic, religious, sexual orientation and gender differences, with all individuals realistically and respectfully depicted.

Suicide Warning Signs for Youth

Warning signs are indications that someone may be in danger of suicide, either immediately or in the near future. Most people show one or more warning signs, so it is important to know the signs and take them seriously especially if a behavior is new or has increased and if it seems related to a painful event, loss, or change. (www.youthsuicidewarningsigns.org)

- Talking about or making plans for suicide.
- Expressing hopelessness about the future.
- Displaying severe/overwhelming emotional pain or distress.
- Showing worrisome behavioral cues or marked changes in behavior, particularly in the presence of the warning signs above. Specifically, this includes significant:
 - Withdrawal from or changing in social connections/situations
 - Changes in sleep (increased or decreased)
 - Anger or hostility that seems out of character or out of context
 - Recent increased agitation or irritability

The following is a list of emergency warning signs that require immediate action!:

- Threatening self-harm or suicide
- Person is in act of self-harm or suicide
- Person has a weapon or other lethal means
- Seeking weapons or means to self-harm
- Talking about death or suicide while acting agitated or anxious, or while under the influence of drugs or alcohol

These warning signs may not signal an emergency situation, but are signs that a person may be in need of help:

- Withdrawing from friends and family
- Hopelessness
- Isolation, loneliness
- Low self-esteem
- Significant personality change
- Dramatic mood changes
- Unusual neglect of personal appearance
- Frequent complaints about physical symptoms, such as headaches, stomachaches, fatigue, etc.
- Loss of interest in pleasurable activities
- Increasing use of alcohol or other drugs
- Putting his or her affairs in order (for example, giving away favorite possessions, or throwing away important belongings)
- Becoming suddenly cheerful after a period of depression (this could be a sign that a person has made a suicide plan)
